

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

This book would not have reached the public if it were not for the innovative therapeutic procedures developed by Dr. Akhter Ahsen, my friend and mentor. I owe special thanks to him.

Mothers possess the ability to impart the gift of life to their children. My sons, Bruce and Arthur, have returned that gift to me many times over through their very special love, strong support, and superior intellect. And, of course, it would have taken much longer for me to have made positive changes in my life were it not for my husband, Bruce, whose love, patience, and encouragement gave me extraordinary support during the writing of this book.